

“Gh. Asachi” Technical University of Iasi, Romania

THE ITALIAN TEACHING EXPERIENCE IN ENVIRONMENTAL TOXICOLOGY

Patrizia Restani*, Roberto Majocchi, Maria Pia Corsini, Corrado Lodovico Galli

Laboratory of Toxicology, Institute of Pharmacological Sciences, University of Milan

Abstract

The need to offer a training opportunity in Environmental Toxicology according to the requirements of the employment market is highlighted in this paper. The course in Environmental Toxicology supplies the specific cultural and professional knowledge to operate in laboratories for the environmental survey and control. The training programmes involve Industrial Managers expert in all process stages (planning, realization, evaluation). Such methodologies better satisfy company demands and facilitated the students' employment.

Keywords: environmental toxicology, health, training, employment

* Author to whom all correspondence should be addressed: e-mail: patrizia.restani@unimi.it